Introducing

STEVE LAWRENCE TALKS

“Inspiring and equipping good teachers to become great...”

- What is the Purpose of my Role in the Classroom?
- What Kind of Teacher Do I Want to Become?
- How do I Achieve Success in Passing on the Faith?
- Do I Have What it Takes to Make An Enduring Impact?

Steve Lawrence, AFL Premiership player, a Director of Australia's largest ever event, World Youth Day 2008, and father of six, addresses these and other vital questions facing educators today. Drawing from compelling anecdotes of his life as a Director of an international school of mission in Rome, his years as enthusiastic educator in the classroom, seasoned world traveller, as well as his adolescent experience in a broken family, Steve humorously and intelligently weaves together inspiring stories of heroism and hope that help teachers to best communicate their mission and purpose at school.

Steve provides a vision that encourages self-belief and a perspective that challenges inadequate modes of faith education, while at the same time engaging in the crucial dialogue about overcoming personal failure. He calls educators to recognise the power of their witness and to prepare themselves accordingly.

Steve is available for inspiring keynotes, seminars & talks.
